

We have released a new and much improved version, number 1.1 of our Articles Count module.

The module counts the number of articles in a section or category in the Joomla core content table, or in a list of sections or category. The categories or sections can be set as module parameters, or can be taken from the request when a blog or table layout is used.

New features include the option to include a link to the section or category.

We are also happy to release the first version of this module for Joomla 1.6.

These are free modules released under the GPL, and can be downloaded from our site here.
